FOREIGN NEWS.

The clipper ship E. H. Taylor, arrived on the 5th-19 days from San Francisco, having left that port on the 15th ultimo. By her we have papers to the date of her sailing, with Eastern war telegrams to the 19th. We select the following summary : Encouraging Letter from Gen. Grant.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The following is an exact copy of a letter from Lieutenant-General Grant: HEADQUARTERS, CITY POINT (Va.)-E. B. Wash. burne-Dear Bir : I state to all citizens who visit us that all we want now to insure the early restoration of the Union is a determined sentiment of unity in the North. The rebels have now in their ranks the last man. Boys and old men are guarding pris-oners and railroad bridges, and forming a good part of their garrisons and entrenched positions. Any man lost by them cannot be replaced. They have robbed the cradle and the grave equally to get their present force. Besides what they lose in frequent skirmishes and battles, they are now losing from desertions and other causes, at least one regiment per day. With this drain upon them, the end is not far distant if we will only be true to ourselves. Their only hope now is in a divided North. This might give them reinforcements from Kentucky, Tennessee, Maryland and Missouri, while it would weaken us. With the draft quietly enforced the enemy would become despondent and would make little resistance. I have no doubt but that the enemy are exceedingly anxious to hold out until after the Presidential election. They have many hopes from its effects. They hope for a counter revolution. They hope for the election of a Peace candidate. In fact, like Micawber, they hope for something to turn up." Our Peace friends, if they expect peace from separation are much mistaken. It would but be the beginning of war, with thousands of Northern men joining the South because of our disgrace in allowing a separation in order to have peace on any terms. The South would demand the restoration of their slaves already freed. They would demand indemnity for losses sustained. They would demand a treaty which would make the people of the North slavehunters for the South.

New York, Sept. 8—George B. McClellan accepts the Chicago nomination. He says: "The existence of more than one Government over the region which once owned our flag is incompatible with the peace, power, and happiness of the people. The preservation of our Union was the sole avowed object for which the war was commenced. It should have been conducted for that object only and in accordance with cose principles which I took occasion to declare when in active service. Thus conducted the work of reconciliation would have been easy. We might have reaped the benefit of our many victories on land and sea. The Union was originally formed by the exercise of a spirit of consiliation and compromise. To restore and preserve it the same spirit must prevail in our councils and in the hearts of the people. The re-establishment of the Union in all its integrity is and must continue to be the indispensable condition of any settlement. So soon as it is clear or even probable that our present adversaries are really for peace upon the basis of Union we should exhaust all the resources of states manship practiced by civilized nations or taught by the traditions of the American people, consistent with honor, and the interests of the country, to secure such a peace, re-establish the Union and guarantee for the future the constitutional rights of every State. The Union is the one condition of peace. We ask no more. Let me add what I doubt not was, although unexpressed, the sentiments of the Convention, as it is of the people they represent, that when any State is willing to return to the Union it should be received at once with a fall guarantee of all its constitutional rights. If a frank, earnest, of all its constitutional rights. If a frank, earnest, and persistent effort to obtain those objects should fail, the responsibility for ulterior consequences will fall upon those who remain in arms against the Union; but the Union must be preserved at all hazards. A vast majority of our people, whether in the army or navy or at home, would, as I would, hail with unbounded juy the permanent restoration of peace on the basis of Union, under the Constitution without the effective of another deep of blood. tion, without the effusion of another drop of blood; but no peace can be permanent without Union. As to the other subjects presented in the resolutions of the Convention, I can merely say I should seek in the Constitution of the United States and the laws framed in accordance therewith the rule of my duty and the limits of Executive power, and endeavor to restore economy in public expenditures, to re-establish the supremacy of law, and by the operation of a more vigorous Nationality resume our commanding position among the nations of the earth. The condition of our finances, the depreciation of paper money, and the burdens thereby imposed on labor and capital show the necessity of a return to a sound financial system, while the rights of citizens and the rights of States and the binding authority of law over the President, army and people are subjects of not less vital importance in peace than in war."

From Grant's Army.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF THE PCTOMAC, Sept. 9.—Batteries on the right and center of our lines kept up quite a lively fire to-day. At intervals the noise made by the cars attracted the attention of the enemy, and they endeavored to interrupt opera-

New York, Sept. 10 .- A Headquarters of the Army of the Potomac dispatch says: Contrabands report trains running on the Weldon Railroad as far as Stony Creek, where supplies are loaded on wagons and hauled to Petersburg via Dinwiddie Court House. Between five and six hundred wagons are constantly engaget in this business. The Confederate officers are taking all the grain to feed their animals, leaving none for the farmers to sow next season.

On the 10th, at one point of our line, just west of the Jerusalem plank road, occupied by the Third Division of the Third Corps, the pickets were so close together that they could converse without difficulty. On part of this line, some distance in rear of their advance, the enemy had thrown up a line of slight earthworks, it is supposed with the intention of falling back to them when occasion may demand. It was determined last night to drive them back to this line, thus strengthening our own. About midnight, when all was quiet, a division was formed in line of battle; the picket line being reinforced, and was ordered to advance. The rebels were evidently not prepared for such a movement, and were completely taken by surprise. Nearly their entire line was captured. They made every effort to retake their loss ground, but did not succeed. Our men now occupy the lines, securely entrenched. We took about one hundred prisoners. Our loss was very light. Desultory firing has been kept up in that vicinity all the morning. The enemy evidently feel sore at being so

The Herald's Ninth Corps correspondent, of the 10th, says: Four deserters from the Third Georgia came into our lines yesterday. They belong to Mahon's division of A. P. Hill's corps, which is in our front. From their statements, as well as from other sources, it is almost definitely ascertained that the rebels have disposed their forces with Longstreet's corps on the extreme right [rebel,] holding the country between Weldon and Danville road, and Hill's corps in the center, occupying the line from the Weldon road to Petersburg; while Beauregard, with his division, garrisons the fortifications in and around that city. These men state that considerable despondency has been occasioned by the fall of Atlanta, particularly among the Georgia troops, who begin to lose all heart in the cause, for the reason that they believe their State hopelessly conquered from the

It is a gratifying sight to witness the wonderful change effected in our army within a few weeks, from the large and frequent reinforcements. Our skeleton regiments are filling out to the old proportions which they exhibited in the first stages of their campaigning: brigades begin to show an unusual numerical force, while the divisions are becoming something like appropriate as commands for our General officers; and with all this, there is a decided improvement in the spirits and health, generally, of the troops.

The Tribune's special dispatch from Headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, dated the 7th, says: A battle seems imminent and is inevitable. The rebels have been largely reinforced from Early's department, and were yesterday crawling steadily into a position most precarious to them. It is thought they are unaware of it. The public may look for stirring news from this quarter immediately. Our recent successes have infused new pride and spirit into this army. Yesterday was full of preparation for victory in the coming struggle.

New York, Sept. 9 .- The Herald's correspondent with Grant, under date of September ... says: "Yesterday large numbers of deserters entered Butler's lines from along their whole line. They were impelled to leave the Southern armies by reading the recent generous order of the Lieutenant-General. They say that a more general circulation of the order would have the effect of bringing rebel soldiers into our lines by hundreds and thousands. They also say an impression prevails among the Southern soldiers that the Chicago Convention meant peace; but if they thought they had to endure another campaign the army of Lee would unquestionably fall to pieces. They assert strongly, and with apparent truthfulness, a great and real weariness of the war. Patriotm has given way to lassitude, and continued lasside to heartlessness and hopelessness."

The Position in the Shenandoah.

The Herald's Harper's Ferry correspondent, under date of September 8th, says: "The military situation is unchanged. The rebels retreated up the valley yesterday and were west of the Opequon river, followed closely by our cavalry. Early had his headquarters at Berryville day before yesterday. A batch of official dispatches, printed orders, etc., relating to the rebel army were found in the house he had occupied as his headquarters. The Third Division of Cavalry, General Wilson, skirmished with the rebel rear guard all day yesterday. An officer from the front to-day reports all quiet there. Charleston and Midway, between this point and Sheridan's army, are now garrisoned by our troops."

Intelligence from the front, (at Petersburg,) and from the Shenandoah valley, seems to lead to the conclusion that Early's forces must be reinforcing Lee. It is quite certain that Lee is massing reinforcements in front of the Weldon Railroad, believed to be from Early's command. A reconnoissance towards the Shenandoah from this direction failed to find the enemy in large force.

From Mobile.

New York, Sept. 9 .- The Herald's Fort Gaines correspondent under date of August 30th, Pays : " Our troops effected a landing at Cedar Point, three miles above Dauphin Island and twenty-five miles from Mobile. The road running to Mobile is held by the rebels. It is reported that they have no fortifications on this road except near the city."

The World's Washington special dispatch, dated 11:30 last night, says: It is rumored in the city that Mobile has fallen. The information is said to have been obtained from rebel deserters, who say that the Dog river bar was passed by the whole fleet. After a terrific shelling the city surrendered, the troops having retired to the interior

From Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Dispatches from General Sherman to 10 o'clock yesterday morning state that his army was concentrated at Atlanta. The troops are in position and are well. Re says that Wilson and Stedman are stirring Wheeler up pretty well, and hopes that they will make an end of him as Gillen did of Morgan. The weather was beautiful and all things bright.

We have no recent intelligence from Mobile. No movements are reported in the Shenandoah Valley or in the Army of the Potomac. Recruiting is progressing vigorously in most of the WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 .- The aggregate bids for the new loan is seventy-two millions. The entire amount awarded, was nearly thirty-three millions, at a premium of over four per cent.

The National Intelligencer comes out strongly in favor of McClellan, to-day.

CAIRO, Sept. 11.—A report at Little Rock states that the rebel Gen. Price had died at Arkadelphia of New York, Sept. 12.—The rebel papers announce the arrival of the pirate Talluhassee at-Wilmington,

An officer who arrived here from Atlanta says that Hood's army is demoralized to the condition of a mob. Sherman's communications are being restored. Lady Franklin is said to be a strong sympathizer with the rebels. She recently entertained a party of them at her residence in London.

Hoon's Losses -From the 20th to the 28th of July, Hood's army for the defense of Atlanta lost 28,400 men in killed, wounded and prisoners. About a month later he lost Atlanta, and pretty nearly the remainder of his army.

New York, Sept. 9.—The Commercial's Washington special dispatch says: All officers and soldiers on detached duty are ordered to their regiments. Lee evidently defers his grand attack until his reinforcements come up. No demonstrations have been made by the enemy since Wednesday. Recruits are hurrying to the front this week, from Pennsylvania especially, more rapidly than at any previous time. The total number of men who go through this city daily is not less than 1,500. The class of men now coming from the country are among the best who have yet entered the field.

Gen Scott refers to it as "a striking fact that three Vice-Presidents, Aaron Burr, John C. Calhoun and John C. Breckinridge, became, each in his day, a leader in treason." RETURN OF DR. LIVINGSTONE .- Dr. Livingstone, the African explorer, is on his way home. He reached Bombay on the 13th of June, after a voyage of forty-two days from Zanzibar in his own steamer, the Lady Nyassa, and is expected to reach England in time for the meeting of the British Association in

The old elm on the village green at Pittsfield, Massachusetts, has been out down and sold at auction for $10 to a person who received $100 for small from it within a short time after. The tree was at least 300 years old, and had been struck several times by lightning. The distance from the ground to its first limb was over 100 feet. Everybody in Pittsfield regretted that safety made its removal necessary.

IMPERIAL VS. REPUBLICAN MEXICO .- If accounts rom Mexico are to be relied on, the new autocrat, Maximillian, is - getting on famously with his monarchical enterprise. The empire is every day growing in popularity with the natives; and the Emperor is doing more to consolidate his power and disarm opposition, by his personal virtues, graces and moderation, than by force of arms.

Instead of wrapping himself in the traditional garb of majesty and mystery, he is ever accessible to his loving subjects, mingles with the common people freely and familiarly, hears and redresses grievances, visits churches, convents and prisons, rises at five in the morning and personally supervises all busines of State; in short, conducts himself contrary to all royal precedent, and as befits a truly democratic potentate having the interests of the people at heart. The Empress is said to be as amiable as she is accomplished and beautiful, dresses with charming simplicity-as most ladies do in that tropic climate-and is, of course, the envy of the women and the admiration of

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH .- It was announced two or three weeks since that the Great Eastern was preparing to take on board the new cable for the Atlantic Telegraph at the place of manufacture, and that all the arrangements have been completed for laying the cable during the next season. By a despatch from St. Johns, Newfoundland, recently we learned that Cyrus W. Field, Esq., of this city, left that day for Placentia Bay, having already visited Trinity Bay, looking for the most favorable place for western terminus or landing point of the great ocean cable. We may therefore anticipate with much confidence the completion of this great enterprise and the opening of instantaneous communication between the New and the Old World. It will probably not awaken the same degree of enthusiasm that was excited by the brief success of the former attempt; but if accomplished it will surely electrify the two continents, and until it is actually achieved millioms of hearts will be looking forward to the time with an interest far removed from anything of a sordid nature.

If this enterprise should be successful, we shall doubtless soon have three separate wires uniting the two continents, -one by the way of Bhering's Straits, under the patronage of the Russian Government, now in an advanced stage, and a more southern Atlantic Telegraph from the coast of France, under the patronage of the French. The undertaking of the latter will depend in a measure upon the success of the Atlantic cable, soon to be re-laid.

The National Republican says: We are authorized and requested to announce, that notwithstanding all that has been said on the subject, neither Mr. Gilmore nor Col. Jacques, on the one hand, nor Horace Greely, on the other, ever have been or are now authorized to express any desire, views or opinions of the President, either in Canada or Richmond, on the subject of negotiations for peace, beyond what he has plainly and carefully written over his own signature. The mission to Richmond, was instigated and executed by Gilmore and Jacques, on their own private account, and they had no authority whatever to speak directly or indirectly for the President of the United States, officially or unofficially, or for Abraham Lincoln, unofficially or privately. If Mr. Ben-jamin's reports of the sayings of Gilmore and Jacques while in Richmond, be correct, they assumed a responsibility not given them, and made statements wholly untrue. The President, after repeated solicitations, consented to give Gilmore and Jacques a pass through the lines. He did not request Gen. Grant to open any correspondence with Gen. Lee to give them safe conduct to Richmond and return. Gen. Grant did that on his own responsibility. President Lincoln requested Gen. Grant to pass them through his military lines, nothing more.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE -The great Tunnel which the city of Chicago is excavating under Lake Michigan, is intended to supply the city with fresh water. It was a bold conception, but it was undertaken and is carried forward with the spirit of enterprise characteristic of this young city of the West. A shaft is first sunk perpendicularly seventy-eight feet below the surface, and from the bottom of this shaft the tunnel is to be carried out a mile or two under the bed of the Lake, where it will communicate with pure water, which will be brought through the tun-

FEARFUL FALL OF A SOMNAMBULIST .- The Washington Chronicle says: A few weeks ago, a lad in his fourteenth year, Johnny Rives, son of the late John C. Rives, Esq., arose from his bed in the still hours of the night, and, passing out of his chamber window, fell thirty feet to the ground, without sustaining serious injury. In his descent, he is some manner struck and broke a window of the chamber below his own. The family were thus alarmed, and when some of them descended to him, he was upon his hands and knees, endeavoring to rise, which he immediately did with slight assistance, and then walked up to his chamber again.

A telegram from Paris of July 28, says: A report of the Minister of War has been published to-day, followed by an imperial decree, modifying the administration of Algeria. The report says: The insurrection was not only caused by fannticism, but still more by an unfounded hope of surprising the vigilance of the authorities, who were believed to be disarmed, because divided in their action. The report, therefore, proposes to increase the responsi bility of the generals commanding divisions, making the prefects subordinate to them, and entrusting them with the administration of the natives established beyond the limits of the communal districts. Orders have been given to dispatch the necessary ships to Mexico to take home the troops that are to return to France. The ships are to sail early in With regard to Mexico, French advices assert that the Emperor Maximilian has already received an assurance from Mr. Lincoln that the Washington Government will be happy to receive a Minister from England. THE QUEEN'S SPEECH .- On the afternoon of the 29th ult. Parliament was formally prorogued. The Queen's speech was delivered by the Lord Chancellor. In regard to America, the speech says : "Her Majesty deeply laments that the civil war in North America has not been brought to a close. Her Majesty will continue to observe a strict neutrality between the belligerents, and would rejoice at a friendly reconcilliation between the contending parties. Her Majesty has observed with satisfaction that the distress which the civil war in North America has created in some of the manufacturing districts has to a great extent abated, and Her Majesty trusts that increased supplies of the raw materials of industry may be extracted from countries by which it has hitherto been scantily furnished." The other features of the speech are an expression of regret at the failure of the Dano-German Conference, and a hope that the new negotiations may lead to peace; a reference to the cession of the Ionian Islands; to the satisfactory progress of commerce, &c., in India and in China; and to the war in New Zerland, &c; winding up with an enumeration of the most important acts of the session, and an expression of satisfaction at the commercial position of the country. TERMINATION OF THE YELVERTON CASE .- The ro mantic Yelverton marriage case was finally disposed of by the House of Lords, on the 28th ultimo. It will be remembered that the Court below decided in favor of the validity of the marriage of the Hon. Major Yelverton with Miss Longworth-and that the former appealed to the House of Lords against this decision. Lords Wensleysdale, Chelmsford and Kingsboun gave judgment that the validity of the marriage was not proved, and that the decision of the Court below should be reversed.

The Lord Chancellor dissented from this view, and gave it as his opinion that the marriage was a valid one. Of course the decision of the majority prevailed, and the judgment of the Court below was reversed. Steps were taken to prevent this judgment being made final in Scotland.

Considerable sympathy was evinced for the lady, who in a letter to the Times announces her intention to carry the case on in Scotland to a final issue. She admits that it can be no satisfection to her to be the wife of Major Yelverton, but says she is actuated by a desire to establish her honor and fair fame. which she will be deprived of unless she succeeds in establishing her wifehood.
